NATIONAL MODEL UNITED NATIONS

The World's Largest College Model United Nations

NCCA HISTORIC HIGHLIGHTS

1945 | The UN Charter is ratified on 24 October. Support for the United Nations in subsequent years includes the development of UN simulations like the National Model United Nations (NMUN).

1950s | Eleanor Roosevelt serves as a keynote speaker at an early NMUN Conference.

1968 | The National Collegiate Conference Association (NCCA) is incorporated to assure the long-term educational integrity and financial success of the NMUN conference.

1974 | NCCA develops the National High School Model UN conference (NHSMUN). In 1979 the high school conference incorporates as a separate nonprofit organization.

1990 | NCCA begins to develop the Southern Regional Model UN conference (SRMUN) in Atlanta in response to the absence of Model UN opportunities in the region. In 1993, SRMUN incorporates as a separate nonprofit organization.

1999 | UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan serves as a keynote speaker at the annual NMUN conference in New York City.

2007 | To better serve participants, NMUN is held as one conference at two New York City venues. More than 4,000 students attend, half from outside the United States. Attendance has more than doubled in ten years.

OUR VISION

A world comprised of civically engaged people who strive for peaceful, multi-lateral conflict resolution and equitable, sustainable human development.

REFLECTIONS | EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

In 2008, the National Collegiate Conference Association (NCCA) will celebrate 40 years of experience-based educational programs that further understanding of the United Nations and contemporary international problems.

Our mission has remained consistent since our inception – offering experiential learning opportunities that provide participants the insights needed to become better global citizens and the next generation of international leaders.

Much has changed at NMUN. What was once a conference of mostly East Coast U.S. schools has grown to be an international forum for students to debate pressing global issues. For the past several years, approximately half of the participants have been from outside the United States – allowing delegates to find common ground with peers from a wide range of backgrounds.

Increased diversity has occurred alongside overall expansion of the programs. More than 4,000 university students and 275+ faculty from five continents attended our 2007 sessions. This annual report highlights in words and pictures their experience in committee sessions and at United Nations Headquarters.

Expanding participation opportunities while maintaining a reasonable size to the simulations has led us to hold our first program outside New York. In November 2007, NMUN-DC will offer several hundred delegates a quality Model UN also featuring access to renowned speakers and embassy briefings possible in the U.S. capital. Organized in partnership with Osgood Center for International Relations and Johns Hopkins University's School for Advanced International Studies, NMUN-DC is also an example of how partnerships can further allow NCCA to fulfill its educational mission.

Looking ahead to the next 40 years we will continue to promote an ever more diverse group of participants and volunteer staff. Through new fundraising efforts we hope to expand our scholarships to increase diverse participation.

The NCCA is grateful to the dedicated individuals past and present through whose gifts of time and resources our programs have flourished. I encourage you to visit our new Web site, www.collegiateconference.org (launching Fall '07), and consider ways you can be more involved in our work.

Peace,

Michael Eaton, Executive Director

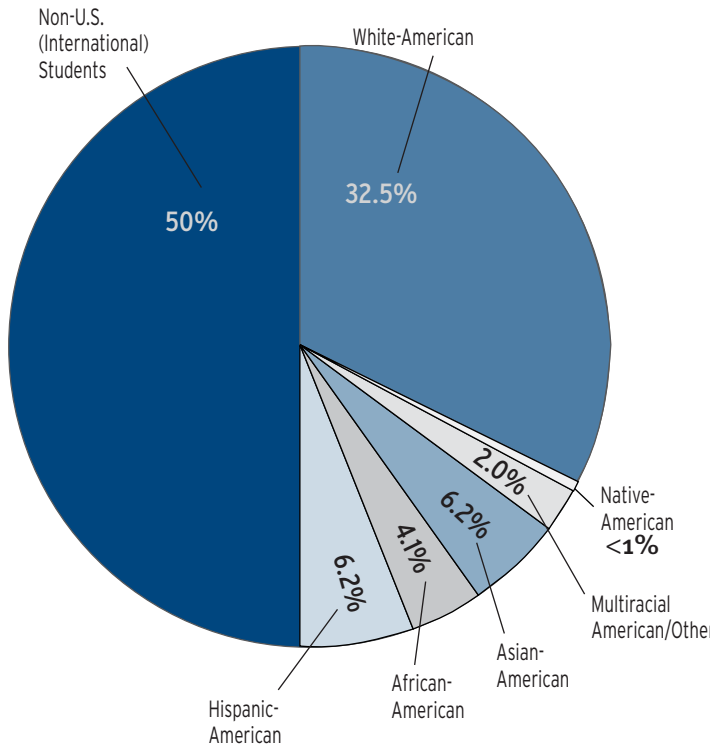

NUMBER WRAP | 2007

4,051 student delegates
 276 faculty members
 266 colleges and universities
 50% delegates from outside U.S.
 48% student-run delegations
 52% credit-bearing classes
 57% / 43% female / male participation

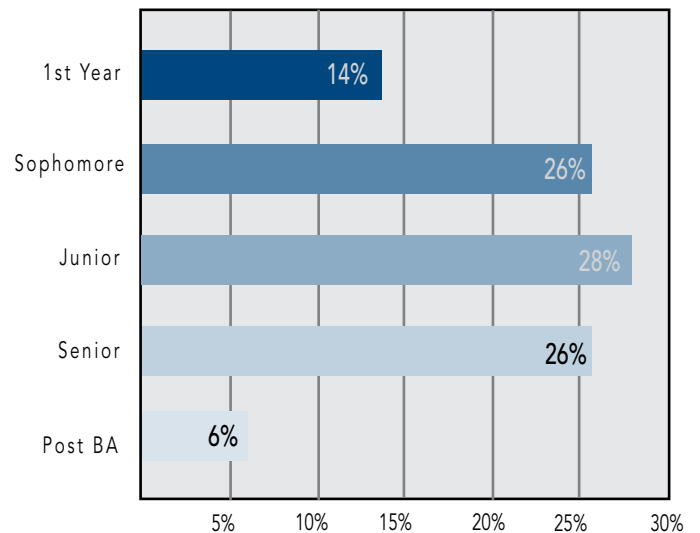

The continued growth of the NMUN simulation – doubling in size in the past 10 years – has resulted in a more diverse conference which more accurately reflects of the United Nations. In 2007 – 50% of our attendees were from outside the United States.

SPEAKERS | UN Deputy Secretary-General Dr. Asha-Rose Migiro and Gillian Sorensen of the UN Foundation were two of the dozens of speakers who inspired delegates. See the next page for a complete list of speakers.

COMMITTEES & STAFF | The 2007 NMUN simulated 21 committees, including innovative sessions like The International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia and the Conference on Disarmament. A complete list of the volunteer staff members who organized NMUN, researched topics, and facilitated debate is found in our most recent Conference Program. For a PDF download visit: www.nmun.org.

NEW DELEGATIONS | NMUN was proud to welcome the first student delegations from Bahrain, Belgium, Ecuador and Latvia to the simulation – allowing all attendees to hear from their peers about hopes for the future.

SCHOLARSHIPS | The presence of students of diverse ethnic and national backgrounds adds to the realism of the simulation. Through two scholarship programs, the NCCA grants funds to defray the cost of attending NMUN. Eleven schools received assistance in bringing 96 students to NMUN.

Diversity-Building Scholarships were awarded to:

- Hinds Community College, Mississippi (2006-2008)
- Mississippi Valley State University (2006-2008)
- Prairie View A&M University, Texas (2007-2009)
- Rust College, Mississippi (2007-2009)
- Shaw University, North Carolina (2006-2008)

Hayden Scholarships, named in honor of a former NMUN Secretary-General, were awarded to:

- La Salle University, Spain
- Plymouth State University, New Hampshire
- Salem College, North Carolina
- State University of New York - Cortland
- Universidad Católica Andrés Bello, Venezuela

OUR MISSION STATEMENT

The National Collegiate Conference Association is a nonprofit organization that advances understanding of the United Nations and contemporary international issues. We positively affect the lives of participants and prepare them to be better global citizens through quality educational experiences that emphasize collaboration and cooperative resolution of conflict.

NCCA has established two scholarship funds to continue adding diverse voices to our Model UN conferences: the Diversity-Building Scholarship Fund and the International Delegation Scholarship Fund. The international fund will focus on assisting delegations from developing countries while the diversity-building fund will offer grants to encourage diverse voices among the U.S. colleges and universities attending.

Gifts designated to these funds will help build an endowment. Interest revenue will be dedicated to scholarships and supplemented with other resources as these endowments grow. Among the first gifts to the International Delegation Scholarship Fund were donations from students attending the 2007 NMUN. Their combined donations will help fund a delegation from a developing country to attend the 2008 NMUN!

In 2007, delegations from Afghanistan, Ghana, Guyana, India, Iraq, Kazakhstan and Poland completed the registration process but ultimately were unable to raise the needed funds to attend. NCCA is appealing to both foundations and individuals to help schools like these. You can help us match the commitment of our participants by contributing. To learn more or to donate, visit www.collegiateconference.org/give.htm.

Gifts are tax deductible to the full extent of U.S. law. U.S. Government employees may also donate through the Combined Federal Campaign Code11538.
