Documentation of the Work of the Human Rights Council
Committee Name

Committee Staff

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Role</th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Director</td>
<td>Hope Berndt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assistant Director</td>
<td>Leah Schmidt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chair</td>
<td>Christine Gramlich</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rapporteur</td>
<td>Marcel Akdenizli</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Agenda

1. Human Rights in the Post 2015 Development Framework
2. The Right to Adequate Housing and Protection from Forcible Evictions
3. Extrajudicial, Summary and Arbitrary Executions

Delegate Awards

- Angola
- Germany

Resolutions adopted by the committee

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Document Code</th>
<th>Topic</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HRC1/1</td>
<td>Human Rights in the Post 2015 Development Framework</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HRC1/2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HRC1/3</td>
<td></td>
</tr> </tbody>
</table>
Summary Report

Sunday Session #1 (1): The delegates had an excellent start to the session. The delegates remained in formal session for the majority of the session, with two suspensions of the meeting where the delegates showed excellent cooperation and diplomacy within caucusing rooms, including a delegate-created moderated caucus. An official agenda of Topic 1, Topic 3, and Topic 2, was decided on, with a great majority agreeing on the order. This left 45 minutes to begin discussing Topic 1, and there was great debate on environmental and gender issues with regards to the Post-2015 Development Agenda.

Monday Session #1 (2): The council started off the session with many speakers from the speakers list. During caucusing, the delegates operated as one large group, organizing into smaller subgroups for the purpose of individually addressing each Thematic Consultation under The World We Want. There was lots of support and diplomacy, and very few separate offshoot groups. The formal session speeches demonstrated agreement amongst the body, and most substantive work was completed during suspensions of the meeting. Long suspensions of the meeting during this session were favoured. At this time, a South-South cooperation, emerged to look at the broad framework of the Post-2015 goals. A second group focused on sustainable development and policy transparency, as well as violence against women and rights of women and children. A third group considered gender equality, health, financial transparency and economic growth.

Monday Session #2 (3): New alliances are emerged after the break. One bloc discussed development frameworks, as well as marginalized rights. A second bloc worked on a development framework. The third bloc officially submitted their first working paper, now titled Working Paper A, on education and related issues. No major divisions emerged in the council, and the delegates remained united. At the very end of this session, a paper on development frameworks was submitted, which became Working Paper B.

Tuesday Session #1 (4): Tuesday started off well: within this session, three working papers were handed in, dubbed Working Papers C, D, E. Working Paper C “Visionable Sustainability for Education Approach (VSEA)” was submitted. Working Paper D, “Healthcare, Gender, etc” was also submitted. Working Paper E “Gender, Socioeconomics, Transparency” was submitted. As a result, the majority of this session was taken up by suspensions of the meeting so delegates could focus on formulating their papers. The few speeches that occurred mainly urged the body to focus to complete and submit working papers.

Tuesday Session #2 (5): The majority of this session was taken up by formal speeches and work on the working papers on the floor. Delegates collaborated very well during this session, especially as the dais collaborated with them on customizing edits for each paper.

Tuesday Session #3 (6): By the end of this session, all five papers had been returned. This session was equally split into suspensions of the meeting and formal debate, as delegates began discussing their edits. There were no major disagreements amongst the delegates, and the delegates began to collaborate and merge their papers. Three major blocs have emerged, and all three are deeply investing in merging the five papers that we have on the floor into a maximum of two or three papers. There seems to be a strong North/South divide in bloc creation, and the common themes of education, health, and gender issues remain a key priority in discussion.

Wednesday Session #1 (7): The council entered this session in a time-crunch due to the need to enter voting bloc by the end of this afternoon, which the delegates definitely rose to. The dais set delegates a deadline for returning the papers to us, and as such, the council spent much of the morning in a suspension of the meeting while delegates merged papers. Papers gradually began appearing around 11am: from Working Papers A, B, C, D, and E, the delegate had now had a merged Working Paper A&E (led by a medium sized group of sponsors), Working Paper B&D (led by a very large collaborative group of sponsors), and Working Paper C (led by the South American bloc). Of these, the delegates were encouraged to network and negotiate amongst their peers in order to reduce redundancy, and share knowledge of existing UN documents with one another. Through this sharing process in informal session, the quality of the papers grew and they became increasingly collaborative. Angola and Germany were the winners of the delegate vote for Best Delegates during this session, and were met with much applause upon receiving their award.

Wednesday Session #2 (8): This was our final session, and the first hour was mainly taken up with giving back final edits, and smoothing over paper flow following the mergers. The delegates managed to fit in as much editing as they possibly could, and as a result, all three papers had three rounds of edits by the time they were approved to be Draft Resolutions. The council moved into voting bloc immediately, and adopted all three papers by acclamation, including two friendly amendments. The delegates were extremely, and deservedly, pleased with the quality and productivity of their work. The council considered Topic 2, “Forced Evictions”, in the time that it had left before adjourning debate. The first few speeches were on the Palestine/Israel conflict, and a working paper was turned in with 12 minutes to spare in the session. The working paper was sent back with edits, however the time ran out on our productive day.
Affirming the United Nations (UN) Universal Declaration on Human Rights, particularly Article 3, which states the right to life and expands upon the health disparity within the international community, and Article 26, which addresses the right to education for all,

Approving of the work done by the UN in collaboration with non-governmental organizations (NGOs), Member States, and other organizations to further the global amelioration of human rights,

Fully aware of the need to provide more affordable and accessible educational facilities, especially for children,

Emphasizing sub-point 1 of Article 2, and Article 3, of the International Covenant on Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights, which protect against discrimination of any kind and ensure the equal right of men and women to the enjoyment of economic, social, and cultural rights,

Alarmed by the pervasiveness of socioeconomic inequalities, including the 1.4 billion people worldwide living in a state of extreme poverty and its devastating effects on political, economic, social, and cultural spheres,

Noting with satisfaction General Assembly Resolution A/RES/53/144, which created the role of the Special Rapporteur on the situation of Human Rights Defenders,

Alarmed by the pervasiveness of socioeconomic inequalities, including the 1.4 billion people worldwide living in a state of extreme poverty and its devastating effects on political, economic, social, and cultural spheres

Deeply disturbed by ubiquitous international gender disparities, specifically women’s limited access to healthcare and medical discrimination,

Reaffirming Article 11 of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), outlining elimination of discrimination against women in the fields of education and employment,

Expressing its support for an increased role by civilian and government led agencies to ensure accountability and transparency in such bodies as national judiciaries and parliaments, specifically with attention to minorities and other marginalized groups,

Expressing its appreciation that gender parity in primary education is on its way to being reached globally,

Recalling A/RES/63/159 as a follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women and full implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, which reaffirms the need of women to recognize their equal rights,

Discouraged by the continuing violations against education institutions and recognizing attempts to counter these kinds of violations as seen in S/RES/1998, which guarantees the protection of children and educational institutions in the context of armed conflict, with the cooperation of national government,

Deeply concerned by the spike in natural and manmade disasters resulting in significant loss of life while impeding economic growth,

The Human Rights Council,

1.  Recommends that Member States and the UN General Assembly craft policies to reduce socioeconomic disparities with a consideration to the Inequality goals of the World We Want 2015, including:

   a.  Social protection floors as set forth by the UN Chief Executives Board for Coordination;
b. Minimum food security guarantees to fight poverty, as described by the Humanitarian Charter and Minimum Standards in Humanitarian Response, specifically relating to targeting and distribution, as well as access to available goods, services, and markets;

c. Increased legal obligations to fulfill minimum social, cultural, and economic rights, including the right to take part in cultural life, to enjoy the benefits of scientific progress, and the freedoms of expression, association, and all other rights enumerated by the HRC and Economic and Social Council;

2. Calls upon a creation of monitoring mechanisms for the Post-2015 Development Framework while respecting the fundamentality of state sovereignty, including:

   a. Suggesting that Member States implement a regional primary education system, which is generally for youth between 5 and 12 years old;

   b. Considering the existing MDG indicators, as well as collecting stories and experiences worldwide on different primary education systems, which take into account urban regions, rural regions, equality access, economic statuses, technological advancement, and political situation, when creating policy;

   c. Collaborating with UNESCO’s group the Monitoring and Evaluation Expert Group (MEEG) and the Human Rights Council (HRC) in order to establish this report;

3. Further recommends Member States to fully implement the spirit of Article 11 of CEDAW by taking concrete steps to enhance the transparency of gender-equal hiring processes, in order to improve the employment environment and job access opportunities for women, by implementing indicators such as:

   a. Eliminate gender discrimination in areas such as recruitment, hiring, pay, and promotion;

   b. Enable work-life balance and support educational, career, and vocational development;

   c. Secure the health, safety, and well-being of female workers;

   d. Ensure equitable participation in management and governance;

   e. Ensure policies are transparent, publicly disclosed, monitored, and enforced, and display active commitment from top leadership;

4. Emphasizes transparency at all levels of government for more effective policies in reference to the Governance goal of the Post-2015 Development Framework, particularly recommending Member States to:

   a. Implement Universal Periodic Review (UPR) mechanisms, which compiles human rights records through the HRC of all 193 Member States and provides equal treatment to all countries;

   b. Ensure a higher level of efficiency through judicial reform, as done by the UN Development Programme;

   c. Augment the scope of civilian-led agencies to hold governments accountable, such as Ministries of Human Rights;

5. Strongly suggests the need for expansion of the mandate of the Special Rapporteur on the situation of Human Rights Defenders in order to examine any shortcomings or progress in relation to the Post-2015 Development Framework, including:

   a. Providing additional protection to women as “Defenders” as stated in Resolution 7/8 of the HRC, which outlines the mandate of the Special Rapporteur;
b. Ensure access for collaboration between the Rapporteur and local institutions in providing updated statistics to encompass the overall progress and using these data to create more effective strategies made within the Millennium Development Goals Gender Chart regarding socioeconomic and gender disparities and the current situation;

6. Fully supports the elimination of medical discrimination against women and children, specifically concerning victims of HIV/AIDS, by:

   a. Presenting a new thematic focus on medical discrimination against women to the Working Group on the Issue of Discrimination Against Women in Law and in Practice, in order to:

       i. Develop dialogue with Member States on the best practices related to the elimination of medical discrimination against women;

       ii. Expand current legislation within Member States to address discriminatory practices;

     iii. Summit an annual report to the Council, starting in July 2015 of this issue;

     iv. Work closely with other UN Bodies and NGOs, such as UN Women, the Women and Children First Organization, Global Hope Mobilization Organization, and the Nippon Foundation;

b. Increasing the prenatal and post-natal care through the use of:

   i. The improvement of the quantity of mobile health clinics by cooperating with UNICEF in order to ameliorate post-2015 maternal deaths to 85 percent;

   ii. Encouraging NGOs such as Médecins Sans Frontières to expand awareness of prenatal and post-natal importance;

7. Calls upon Member States to promote gender equality in the education system by:

   a. Mobile education facilities capable of informing individuals and minorities about their personal rights:

       i. Overseen by NGOs and/or in cooperation with local governments;

       ii. Designed for specific environmental hardships;

b. National educational campaigns implemented by local NGOs aimed at reducing regional educational disparities of human rights;

   c. Supporting reports made by UN-approved NGOs, the Special Rapporteur on the right to education, and UNESCO, in order to highlight progress or shortcomings as well as recommendations on gender equality in the education system;

    d. Providing daycare services within the school or close by to allow student mothers to receive an education:

       i. Funded by NGOs that engage in childcare services;

       ii. Supervised by local nationally-approved NGOs under the encouragement of national governments;

       iii. Located either in the mother’s school, nearby community centers, or in already existing daycare centers;

8. Expressly encourages all Member States to incorporate natural disaster management training in their educational systems that:

   a. Focus on preventative and reactive measures to natural disasters, which will include proper safety tactics;
b. Will be supported by international, regional and local NGOs;

c. Reanalyze these programs every two years and share results with other Member States, especially those facing the same issues to keep relevant and sustainable practices.
Realizing that the totality of the Millennium Development Goals is highly unlikely to be achieved by 2015 and that an extended development framework based on Human Rights and fueled by education has to be set,

Recalling the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, with particular attention to Article 26 stating the right to education, the Declaration on Education for All, and the Millennium Declaration (A/RES/55/2),

Believing in the importance of general education and the opportunity to prevent child labor in future generations by compulsory education in the present to give future generations their deserved opportunities for development,

Recognizing the Report of the Special Rapporteur (A/68/294) on the Right to Education regarding the Post-2015 education agenda,

Bearing in mind there is a disparity between urban and rural areas, especially in developing Member States’ minority groups, and equal access to education could be the filler of this gap,

Deeply concerned by the complexity of development framework regarding education, and about the lack of willingness to invest in education, and the difficulties to get access to education in rural areas, especially for minorities, women, refugees,

Emphasizing the importance of gender equality in primary schooling as stressed in the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women in conjunction with A/RES/65/1, Keeping the Promise: United to Achieve the Millennium Development Goals (MDG), Realizing the potential of Public-Private Partnerships for Service Delivery (PPPSD), the public sector, and non-government organizations for the improvement of education,

Noting with satisfaction the tremendous progress regarding achievements of the MDG 2 in many Member States, which is essential to achieve a more educated and equitable world,

Noting with concern that global institutions have paid too little attention to education as a human right, as stressed by the Education for all and the global development agenda beyond document,

Addressing developed Member States to share their knowledge concerning new technologies,

Fully aware of the necessity of funding for education infrastructure in order to ensure a better impact on well-being for students, whom can have higher average scores if they enjoy quality school infrastructure than students who have poor quality infrastructure,

Aware of the potential of internet-based learning as a means to reaching more peoples and compensating for hardships,

Convinced that human rights, agricultural knowledge, women’s right, health awareness, and environmental protection are the most urgent topics to focus in regard to education,

The Human Rights Council,

1) Urges all Member States to be reminiscent of the past actions concerning development and to implement the standards set by the Post-2015 Development framework in a locally adapted way;

2) Encourages Member States to reach MDG 2 until 2015 and to reach the content of the education goal by 2020,
3) Suggests all Member States who do not have systems designed for compulsory primary education to begin creating a framework of an educational system incorporating primary education.

4) Supports the Report of the Special Rapporteur concerning the goals to improve education regarding the Post-2015 education agenda;

5) Encourages the building of community centers in rural areas, where computers shall be installed, and which should provide access to internet in order to use educational computer software, to achieve:
   a. Access to education in rural areas,
   b. Enlightened information to the people concerning human rights, political education and gender equality,
   c. Locally useful knowledge on the usage of local resources and practices,

6) Recommends all Member States to introduce streamlined structures of aid organizations in order to improve efficiency and effectiveness, and further reminds the UN Member States of the long-term effects of investments in education, and the possibility to borrow from the World Bank;

7) Encourages UN Member States to emphasize the importance of equal access to education for both sexes;

8) Encourages to continue to implement the Millennium Goal of primary education where this goal has not been achieved and to focus on secondary education is guaranteed;

9) Further encourages the private sector and non-government organizations to be actively involved into improving global education levels by:
   a. Providing aid and resources to school programs;
   b. Support the construction of community centers in rural locations;
   c. Actively assist the goal of providing proper educators;

10) Calls upon Member States to fill the gaps in international legislation in regards to education,

11) Recommends the establishment of an international collection of best practices through which Member States can share their knowledge regarding computer education programs;

12) Suggests the technological infrastructure to be provided with the help of industrialized countries;

13) Proposes increased international collaboration in order to increase knowledge transfer and facilitate political transition by:
    a. Creating a database of resources available on political transition;
    b. Putting in place a working of experts on increasing knowledge transfer related to political group transition;

14) Recommends to establish local community centers that are equipped with basic computers and Internet access;

15) Encourages Member States to consider the following topics in their respective national educational agenda:
    a. Provide education of human rights;
    b. Improve agricultural knowledge and information in schools;
c. Promote awareness of women’s rights and gender equality;
d. Further provide programs that promote health and wellness in order to also prevent the spread of disease;
e. Nurture environmental protection and conservation awareness.
Reaffirming the need for universal, interdependent and non-discriminatory human rights to be at the core of the post-2015 development agenda as set forth in General Assembly resolution 41/128 and General Assembly resolution 66/288,

Approving the work begun by the consultations involved in creating The World We Want and The Future We Want also known as A/RES/66/288, as a basis for designing the new framework for Post-2015 Development Agenda,

Deeply concerned by existing inequalities between and within Member States with regards to achievements of the developmental agenda in particular perpetrated by structural barriers,

Emphasizing the need for addressing and bridging inequalities in the Post2015 development framework as emphasized in The Future We Want outcome document of the Rio+20 Conference and The World We Want global consultation process,

Acknowledging the 2014 Global Health Conference, for the sharing of best practices and knowledge on the Right to Life and Right to Health and the importance of continuing to support the overall healthcare related goals of the UN Decade of Education for Sustainable Development,

Recognizing Article 12 of the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, which outlines the right to physical and mental health and the steps meant to achieve them including the creation of conditions which would ensure access to medical services and attention for all,

Recognizing the importance of integrating the community into healthcare management and the importance of continuing to support efforts at improving maternal and child health such as endorsed by the Global Health Diplomacy, Noting the Abuja Declaration on HIV/AIDS, tuburculousis, and other related infectious diseases, which entails developing appropriate practices, effective implementation mechanisms, and concrete monitoring structures to ensure effective and adequate control of infectious diseases,

Acknowledging the objectives that the World Health Organization put forward at the 2013 Budapest Water Summit which included providing safe and clean water with aim to improve sanitation & hygiene, and with the hope of promoting health & well-being with the long term goal of reducing and finally eradicating poverty through the right to access clean drinking water,

Viewing with appreciation the efforts of the Association for Women’s Rights and Development to emphasize the significance of empowering women for development through the defense of their fundamental human rights,

Deeply concerned by the correlation between a lack of education amongst marginalized groups and disproportionate levels of poverty;

Recalling the importance of the Convention on the Rights of the Child in the context of development in order to ensure that the “child should be fully prepared to live an individual life in society, and brought up in the spirit of the ideals proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations, and in particular in the spirit of peace, dignity, tolerance, freedom, equality and solidarity,” has not been sufficiently addressed to within the MDGs,

Understanding inequalities experienced by children are a focal point of the Post 2015 Development framework, in order to ensure that the Rights of the Child are adequately met;

Drawing further attention to Resolution 2143 and Resolution 1998 places a focus on the importance of protecting schools and hospitals in armed conflict in order to prevent the recruitment of child soldiers, while supporting the continued and comprehensive inclusion of child protection advisors in peacekeeping operations and peace building missions

Noting that birth registration, under article 7 of the Convention on the Right of the Child, is a fundamental precondition to the enjoyment of all human rights and the chance to enforce those rights,

Noting with deep concern that the MDGs target of reducing the child mortality rate by two thirds, from 87 children of every 1,000 dying before the age of five in 1990 to 29 of every 1,000 in 2015, has not yet been met, as the global under-five mortality rate stands at 51 deaths per 1,000 live births,

Recalls the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) with its Public-Private Partnerships for Service Delivery (PPPSD) supporting the alleviation of poverty in the context of the MDGs,

Emphasizing the right to adequate food set forth in Article 25 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the importance of food security in realizing this right and guaranteeing sustainable development as set forth in The Future We Want (A/RES/66/288) and therefore welcomes the constructive work of the Committee on World Food Security to this end,

Appreciating the work of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT) for their devotion on ensuring sustainable tenure while recommending special attention be given to securing adequate housing and condemning forced eviction of individuals in the international community

Having considered Principle 3 of the Rio Declaration stating that the right to development must be fulfilled in accordance with the achievement of environmental sustainability,

Reiterating Article 12 of the A/RES/54/175 which emphasizes the significance of the full realization of the right to development through maintaining access to food and clean water as fundamental human rights,

Aware that Member States are in need of consistent funding to implement policies both domestic and international that uphold and ensure the right to development and the human rights of all persons, and that Member States need to differentiate responsibility based upon financial capabilities,

Acknowledging that the current system of development loan allocation does not sufficiently take into account either the borrower’s human rights record or its commitment to future improvements in that matter,

Fully aware that peace and security are preconditions of sustainable development,

Fully aware of ongoing violent conflicts worldwide and of the importance of peacekeeping in the protection of human rights and the achievement of social, economic, and environmental development objectives, as stated in the Declaration on the Right to Development,

Bearing in mind that the further emergence of terrorism in the 21st century has impacted the ability to develop socially, economically, and maintain peace and security as mentioned in the report by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights on Human Rights, Terrorism, and Counter-terrorism,

Aware of the need for further guidelines on good governance as a precondition of the successful enforcement of human rights,

Acknowledging the constructive contribution of civil society to the realization of good governance,

Deeply concerned by the hindrance to effective national and international cooperation caused by corruption and bribery and in this context drawing attention to the United Nations Convention Against Corruption as a component of good governance,
Acknowledging the need for universal ratification of international human rights instruments such as the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and the accession to regional human rights courts such as the Inter-American Court of Human Rights and the European Court of Human Rights, African Court on Human and Peoples Rights, Recalling the report of the High-Level Panel of Eminent Persons on the Post-2015 Development Agenda, A new Global Partnership, that affirms the necessity of enhancing governments’ accountability in regard of their commitments to the protection of human rights.

Recognizing the need for further collaboration between the World Bank and developing countries and acknowledging prior successes in both Sub-Saharan Africa and Latin America,

Fully aware of the need for information and communication technologies (ICTs) in order to foster the social and economic development of marginalized population groups as elaborated in the 2013 Costa Rica Declaration,

Having considered the outcome of 2005 World Summit resolution 60/1, which emphasizes the role of science and technology, including Information and Communications Technologies (ICTs), as vital for the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, reaffirming the need for intergovernmental framework for energy for sustainable development,

The Human Rights Council,

1. Recommends the establishment of a monitoring mechanism within the Human Rights Council concerning the achievement of the human rights aspect of the post-2015 development goals and based on the universality, interdependence and non-discriminatory application of human rights and the common but differentiated responsibilities therefore decides to:

a. Call upon member states to submit biennial reports to the Human Rights Council on their achievements of the post-2015 development goals with a particular emphasis on the human rights aspect of the framework,

b. Mandate the Human Rights Council to analyse the aforementioned reports, provide recommendations to bridge possible developmental gaps and serve as a platform to share best practices;

2. Suggests that the UN High Commissioner for Human rights, the UN Development Programme and the Economic and Social Council collaborate closely to address and evaluate reports on accountability of Member States towards the respects of the right to development, starting in 2015, after the deadline of the MDGs;

3. Endorses community based micro health initiatives, that focus on involving the local community in decision making and assessment of healthcare needs, such as the Lluyllucucha health micro-network, for the eradication of communicable diseases and with the overall goal of global universal healthcare;

4. Takes note of the correlation between a lack of adequate maternal education and the death of children in early childhood, and thus emphasizes enhancing prenatal and post natal care by:

a. Increasing specific education programs, such as the Lamaze International program which provides mothers with education on staying healthy during the prenatal period;

b. Expanding on the existing parental aid provided by MDG 4 through the fostering of the role of NGOs;

5. Suggests all Member States to increase cooperation efforts whilst working with governmental and non-governmental bodies on both the national and local level in the issue of monitoring the current situation regarding sexual abuse of children.
6. Encourages the creation of sub-goals in Goal 6 of the World We Want development framework, with strong focus upon the three major infectious diseases of AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria with the following recommendations:

a. Encourages the use of awareness raising campaigns about the effects of HIV and AIDS as a means for prevention and treatment, and suggests that Member States use programs like that done by the UN observer Amnesty International’s AIDS initiatives which provide constant education on the link between Human Rights & AIDS;

b. Further invites member states to provide greater financial, educational and technical resources allocated to researching how best to treat and manage Tuberculosis and other infectious diseases, especially through the sharing of capacity building resources between developing and developed states as seen by such societies such as the American Thoracic Society Methods in Epidemiological, Clinical and Operations Research;

c. Expresses its hope that Member States, particularly in developing areas severely affected by Malaria, will aid in its eradication through programs that focus on prevention and greater implementation of broad planning mechanism such as the usage of the Global Malaria Action Plan, which emphasizes the need for Member States to focus on research, and prevention schemes;

7. Understanding that precautions should be taken to ensure that there are adequate guidelines and resources available to prevent the spread of future infectious diseases, such as:

a. Encouraging partnerships between Member States and civil society such as the Water for People and the International Water & Sanitation Center partnerships to educate people about the prevention of water borne illness;

b. By supporting the work of such NGO’s, such as Health Care Without Harm who works to transform health care through improving environmental health by removing medical waste & toxic chemicals which can spread infectious disease;

c. Through creating sanitation systems, with the aid of organizations like UNWATER’s WASH (Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene) that meet the needs of local conditions with respect to the creation of latrines and hand washing stations to minimize the spread of waste related disease;

8. Proposes the following definition of absolute poverty as set forth in the Report of the World Summit for Social Development be adapted as:

a. A condition characterized by severe deprivation of basic human needs, including food, safe drinking water, sanitation facilities, health, shelter, education and information which depends not only on income but also on access to social services;

b. Meaning a person living on less than 1.25 usd a day, according to the World bank;

9. Appeals to Member States to initiate gender equality with the aim of including women in the overall economic development through:

a. The provision of ICTs enabling women to construct a network of consumers for self-initiated small businesses, such as the mWomen program, which works to provide technologies to women in resource poor environments;

b. The financing of small micro loans to support women with interest free loans and financial training to ensure their efficacy and long term sustainability, with aid from programs similar to the Amanah Ikhtar Malaysia organization;
10. Strongly requests that Member States, in an effort to achieve equality in all levels of education, including secondary, thereby ensuring adequate education for all, by:

   a. Stressing the need for universal primary education schooling and guaranteeing uniform high quality, as outlined by the Global Education First Initiative;

   b. Emphasizing the importance of the inclusion of minority and indigenous groups in education, and the need to develop appropriate educational materials that foster community participation within school management through programs such as the Access to Intercultural Bilingual Education Project (PAEBI);

   c. Creating incentives such as the World Bank’s Conditional Cash Transfer program, for enrolling girls in school and ensuring they remain within the educational system beyond puberty;

   d. Working with independent experts and pertinent NGO’s in assisting teachers in designing lessons with a fair gender based focus;

11. Stresses the importance of cooperative education programs to be implemented by Member States with assistance from NGOs as necessary, as a means of achieving independent technical capacity for good governance, similar to the model used in the Indian Technical and Economic Cooperation program, which provides training resources to diplomats and trade negotiators as a means to build human resource capacity and work towards reducing dependency on external sources for training services;

12. Encourages Non Governmental Organizations, Member States, and UN agencies such as UN Women and United Nations Trust Fund to End Violence against Women, to collaborate to strengthen their impact as a means of monitoring and evaluating the implementation of the goal concerning gender equality, in particular to:

   a. Including the points of view of governments and a range of other stakeholders, including groups from civil society, the private sector, academia and research institutes;

   b. Collecting experiences of gender-based violence and discrimination in the work and political sphere in order to identify the cases to prioritize;

   c. Providing material, technical, and psychological assistance to women who have suffered from all forms of gender-related violence;

   d. Adopt the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women;

13. Appreciates the work of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-HABITAT) for their devotion on ensuring sustainable tenure while recommending special attention be given to securing adequate housing and condemning forced eviction of individuals in the international community;

14. Encourages all Member States to promote PPPSD, under UNDP, between local authorities, businesses and communities in order to increase employment opportunities and overall economic growth, which would facilitate and increase the access of the impoverished communities to basic services such as water, sanitation, education and health, for the purposes of achieving several goals under the Post 2015 Development Agenda, by:

   a. Providing effective, transparent and accountable cooperation between the public and private sectors;

   b. Strengthening national capacities for designing, implementing and evaluating macro-economic policies;

   c. Creating employment opportunities;
15. Encourages Member States, in an effort to reduce food insecurity and reach a level of independency from foreign food imports/dependency, to work with civil society groups in order to ensure sustainable agriculture and adequate nutrition, through the creation of educational programs in order to:

a. Teach the efficient use of water and techniques to develop biodiversity to small holder farmers, such as the work done by the One Acre Fund to provide this education;

b. Implement more sustainable indigenous and minority persons farming techniques, similar to Navdanya, which preserves indigenous seeds and cultural farming practices;

16. Invites Member States to implement mechanisms, as a part of their implementation of the Post 2015 Development Framework, to ensure access to sanitary sources of water for farming, drinking and general use for all populations through:

a. Programs that educate local communities on how best to maintain, protect and clean water sources under their control, such as in the Water Defenders program thought he inter-American Development Bank;

b. National policies that incorporate cooperation between private and public sector bodies to maintain wells and other communal water sources ensuring universal access;

17. Encourages Member States to collaborate with NGOs and relevant UN bodies, including the United Nationals Environment Program (UNEP), in order to move towards carbon neutrality in order to achieve the Environmental Sustainable goal in the Post-2015 Development Agenda through:

a. Promoting the use of best practices among private sector groups concerning the implementation of low carbon emissions techniques;

b. Discouraging excessive carbon emission emitters by monetary means;

c. Reserving forest covers in order to sustain their carbon capture and storage capabilities;

18. Commends Member States that work in conjunction with one another and the private sector to enact policies in line with the environmental sustainability elements of the new development framework, specifically through sharing information and new innovations in technology that provide alternatives to fossil fuels, while using alternatives that are renewable and sustainable for the particular countries involved;

19. Reminds developed states of their pledge to commit 0.7 percent of their Gross National Product (GNP) to Official Development Assistance (ODA), in order to enable sustainable economic development with an aim toward future independence, while also alleviating the pressure upon developing states to repay loans by collaborating to create alternatives such as debt cancellation, debt swaps or low interest loans;

20. Reaffirms the importance of strengthening efforts in guaranteeing peace and security as a precondition of the implementation of human rights as outlined in the area of conflict and fragility in the 2015 The World We Want and therefore wishes to draw attention the international community to:

a. The protection of natural resources, as a means of preventing conflict relapse and guaranteeing access to resources for the protection human rights in peacekeeping missions as recommended in the ""From Conflict to Peace building – the Role of Natural Resources and the Environment’’ report by the United Nations Environmental Programme in order to avoid illegal funding of violent conflict;

b. The enforcement of human rights in the context of peacekeeping missions as presented in the “United Nations Peacekeeping Operations Principles and Guidelines’’ developed by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support;
21. Recognizes the need for more effective monitoring instances regarding grave human rights violations as they pertain to unlawful occupation of nations in the 2015 The World We Want, and therefore asks the advisory committee of the HRC to:

   a. conduct a comprehensive analysis of persisting human rights violations in conflict areas, and analyze their impacts on the realization of the right to development in affected areas in both long and short term;

   b. recommend initiatives of the Human Rights Council to further monitor, limit, and prevent human rights violations by ensuring the effective implementations of the recommendations of the respective committee within the Human Rights Council;

22. Further recommends that as a part of the Post-2015 Framework under the prevention of conflict and fragility, terrorism and other forms of unconventional warfare by:

   a. Determining a definition for terrorism within either the 1540 or first committee;

   b. Broadening the mandate of the Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism to conduct a study on the economic and human cost of terrorism every three years;

23. Emphasizes the importance of strengthening the rule of law and ensuring responsive public services as important components of good governance as set forth in The World We Want 2015 and the 2014 Governance for Sustainable Development discussion paper of the UNDP and therefore recommends all Member States to:

   a. Support the extension the length of time of the mandate of the Special Rapporteur on the Independence of Judges and Lawyers;

   b. Cooperate with the aforementioned Special Rapporteur and share expertise with regards to establishing independent judicial authorities, including the training of law enforcement personnel and the strengthening of the infrastructure of penitentiaries;

   c. Ensure equal access to and participation in the judicial and political system of all population groups with a particular emphasis on rural population groups and minorities;

24. Further recommends the creation of a Working Group of Experts on Good Governance as a sub-committee of the Human Rights Council, in order to include good governance in the new development framework, as suggested in The World We Want 2015, mandated to:

   a. Analyze existing successful state-building processes in order to draft guidelines and recommendations on how to respect and implement human rights with regards to the challenges of such processes:

      i. As inspired by the "From Assessment to Practice: Action Planning for Governance Reform" initiative of the World Bank, in particular of areas of cooperation regional efforts and communication;

      ii. Composed of important stakeholders representing relevant UN agencies such as UNDP, UNDEF and OHCHR, as well as Member States, civil society and the scientific community;

   b. Assist states in state-building processes in their efforts to implement human rights in a sustainable manner as recommended by the aforementioned expert group;
25. Calls upon member states to provide reliable and continuous data on the achievement of the human rights aspects of the Post-2015 Development Framework in regards to gender, age, ethnicity and social group in order to raise awareness of possible inequitable achievements and contribute to specific programmes targeting these gaps within member states,

26. Encourages Member States to enhance their cooperation with UN agencies as well as civil society and therefore recommends Member States to:

   a. mandate a Special Rapporteur on the Human Right to Development responsible for monitoring the implementation of the human rights aspect of this post-2015 development framework;

   b. extend a standing invitation to the Special Rapporteur on Violence against Women, its causes and consequences in order to facilitate its work in monitoring situations in which the women’s rights are not respected;

   c. collaborate with non-governmental organisations providing reliable, available data concerning the achievements of the human rights aspect of this post-2015 development framework, regarding in particular areas and population groups not covered by the respective governmental authority;

27. Suggests that the UN High Commissioner for Human rights, the UN Development Programme Programme and the Economic and Social Council collaborate closely to address and evaluate reports on accountability of Member States towards the respect of the right to development, starting in 2015, after the deadline of the the MDGs;

28. Suggests Member States to implement a Community Based Monitoring System (CBMS) providing an accurate baseline information on poverty and the welfare status of citizens at the regional level and ensuring that adequate help is distributed to the impoverished communities in order to facilitate the planning, budgeting and implementation of local development programs;

29. Encourages Non Governmental Organizations, Member States, and UN agencies such as UN Women and United Nations Trust Fund to End Violence against Women, to collaborate to strengthen their impact as a means of monitoring and evaluating the implementation of the goal concerning gender equality, in particular to:

   a. Include the points of view of governments and a range of other stakeholders, including groups from civil society, the private sector, academia and research institutes;

   b. Collect experiences of gender-based violence and discrimination in the work and political sphere in order to identify the cases to prioritize;

   c. Provide material, technical, and psychological assistance to women who have suffered from all forms of gender-related violence;

   d. Adopt the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women;

30. Encourages the private and public sector to foster collaboration in addressing the human right for development of marginalized groups by moving towards universal access to ICTs through:

   a. considering the adoption of a legal framework that allows flexibility for the establishment of ICT providers in new markets;

   b. fostering collaboration between local businesses and NGOs, along with assistance from the World Bank;

   c. furthering efforts in promoting new and innovative techniques and ideas to increase access to ICTs worldwide as initiated inter alia by Google in Sub-Saharan Africa;
d. extending the mandate of the Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Expression to further promote public private partnerships concerning improved implementation of ICTs in the developing world;

31. Requests that private sector organizations and NGOs comply with international standard 26000 and endorse the UN Global Compact, with the adoption of a UN label as an incentive for responsible and sustainable development with respect to human rights worldwide, as a means of monitoring effectively the upholding of the new sustainable development goals.