Summary Report

The Security Council held its annual session to consider the following agenda topics: I. The Situation in Syria, II. Strengthening United Nation Peacekeeping Operations, III. Peace Consolidation in West Africa. The first session was attended by representatives of 15 Member States who participated diligently in the remaining sessions.

The Security Council meeting was called to order at 8:05 PM on 30 March 2014. The Council began by hearing speeches and discussing the setting of the agenda, which was adopted in the order of I, III, II. Members called for the inclusion of the situation in Crimea, but the Council inevitably decided to focus on the existing agenda. Debate on the Situation in Syria began, focused on peaceful resolution of the conflict between the Syrian authorities and opposition groups and the potential for political transition; neutralizing terrorist groups exacerbating the conflict; reestablishing the mandate of the United Nations Supervision Mission in Syria; and ensuring the safe delivery of aid to refugees and internally-displaced peoples (IDPs), particularly in Homs, Syria. Working groups formed to draft language to address these topics.

The second session continued discussion on the need to address the need for humanitarian assistance for internally displaced persons (IDPs) and refugees within Syria, the establishment of a humanitarian corridor, increased anti-terrorism efforts, and the potential for political transition and additional border control.

After the break, the delegations work resulted in the acceptance of 5 working papers by the dais. Working paper Beta, sponsored by France, Guatemala, Republic of Korea, and Togo, was dedicated to the renewal of the mandate and strengthening of UNSMIS forces to appropriately administer the aid for Syrian refugees and establishing an experimental corridor which runs between Homs, Syria and Qoubaiyat, Lebanon. The sponsors requested additional funding to support internally displaced persons and recommended a mandated pre-deployment training including culture based training, training for the elimination of gender-based violence, and for gender equality in forces deployed.

Working paper Delta addressed the need for open dialogue between the Syrian government and all relevant opposition groups and for a Syrian-led political transition. The sponsors included the Argentina, Azerbaijan, Australia, the People’s Republic of China, France, Pakistan, Russia, Rwanda, United Kingdom, and the United States of America. The delegations called upon the establishment of a third Peace Conference in Geneva under the supervision of the Security Council, the European Union, the Arab League, and the Organization of the Islamic Cooperation, and for the establishment of a Center of Ethnic and Religious Mediation and Reconciliation to bring together civil and spiritual leaders.

Guatemala, France, Azerbaijan, Luxembourg, Australia, Argentina, Morocco, Republic of Korea and the United States of America proposed draft resolution language to ensure access for the UN and non-governmental humanitarian organizations to refugees, including internally-displaced persons (IDPs). Their working paper focused on technological advancements to the Syrian Refugee Response Inter-Agency Information Sharing Portal to track IDPs and expanding the work of United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights to provide aid to them. The group called for funding these initiatives through the hosting of a Third International Humanitarian Pledging Conference for Syria focused on IDPs.
Russia and the People’s Republic of China joined with Togo, Pakistan, Republic of Korea and Rwanda to address the spillover effects of the conflict on the work of United Nations Disengagement Observer Force (UNDOF) in the Syria-Israel area of separation. Reforms to UNDOF to ensure protection from regional instability related to the Syrian conflict were the primary focus. Proposals included the provision of enhanced defensive equipment; cultural and linguistics training provided by the Arab League and Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC); technical training by the permanent members of the Council; and a consultative mechanism for the biannual renewal of UNDOF mandate to discuss operational challenges.

A working paper drafted by the Pakistan, Rwanda and the People’s Republic of China focused on countering terrorist groups capitalizing on the conflict and strengthening border control. The group directed the Counter-Terrorism Committee to establish a task force for Syria in cooperation with the Al-Qaeda Sanctions Committee and the development of a public awareness campaign on the connection between terrorist activities and small arms proliferation. The paper was known as Working Paper Gamma.

During formal debate of the third session, delegates recognized the necessity of merging working papers Alpha, Delta and Gamma to create a document that would garner universal support. Sponsors of working papers Alpha and Beta collaborated to incorporate the establishment of a corridor for humanitarian aid to be incorporated into working paper Alpha. In the fourth session, the council diligently worked to develop language within each of the working papers to hopefully obtain universal support within the council. For the duration of the fifth session delegates continued efforts to merge working papers Alpha, Delta and Gamma and build consensus within the committee for all working papers.

The sixth session reconvened with an unexpected crisis that emerged with the announcement of a collision of a US naval ship and a Chinese submarine when the submarine was forced to surface in the South China Sea. The United States sought to take action to assist those on board the vessel, which was met by great opposition from China due to the disputed territorial jurisdiction of the South China Sea between China and the Philippines. Seeing no need for reaction to the situation at the time, the committee returned to efforts on the merging of working papers. Session continued with the acceptance of the working paper Epsilon as draft resolutions 1/1 and the merged working paper of Alpha, Delta and Gamma as draft resolution 1/2.

The seventh session began with the acceptance of working paper Beta as draft resolution 1/3. One friendly amendment was accepted for draft resolution 1/1, three friendly resolutions for draft resolution 1/2 addressing operative clauses 5 to direct the Counter-Terrorism Committee (CTC) to report to the Council within three months following the Geneva III conference on terrorist activities, 12b to address the potential for establishing a humanitarian corridor from Homs, Syria, to Qoubaiyat, Lebanon, and 16 to establish a Center of Ethnic and Religious Mediation and Reconciliation in Damascus. Resolutions 1/1 and Resolution 1/2 were passed by acclamation. One unfriendly amendment to insert operative clause 2 into draft resolution 1/3 to reestablish the MNMIS failed, followed by the initial resolution 1/3.

The council then moved to address peace consolidation in West Africa. Delegates focused on the need to identify the underlying issues hindering peace efforts in West Africa, including: terrorism, lack of economic development, drug-trafficking, and piracy.
The eighth session continued with formal debate on topic III. New information about the developing situation in the South China Sea resulted in the adjournment of debate on both Topic III and Topic II. The members of the Security Council expressed its concern for the recent developments in the unfortunate collision between the USS Grant and unnamed Chinese submarine in the South China Sea on Monday 1 April 2014, which resulted in the sinking of both vessels. The members of the Security Council noted that the highest priority of all relevant parties and of this body is to provide assistance to the peoples who have been stranded as a result of the collision, and reaffirmed their commitment to sovereignty and independence of all Member States of the United Nations.

The Council adjourned at 3:20 PM on 2 April 2014, expressing satisfaction with progress toward addressing the situation in Syria and committed to resolving arising conflicts, including in the SCS.
The Security Council,

Reaffirming the 1974 Disengagement of Forces Agreement between Israel and the Syrian Arab Republic, which establishes an area of separation as a buffer zone between Syria and Israel, and led to the creation of the United Nations Disengagement Observer Force (UNDOF), as well as its resolution 338 (1974),

Deeply concerned that the instability in the Syrian Arab Republic is having detrimental spillover effects on UNDOF operations, including cross-border fire in the area of separation, as referred to in its resolutions 2131 (2013), 2108 (2013), 2084 (2012), 2043 (2012), 2042 (2012), and 1994 (2011), among other past actions,

Emphasizing the crucial role of UNDOF in upholding the ceasefire and securing the Golan Heights while the situation in Syria threatens to destabilize the region, convinced that a strengthened UNDOF mission will help further prevent the spread of conflict, and concerned by the resource gaps which inhibit UNDOF troops from protecting the area of separation and the area of limitation from the surrounding conflict,

Guided by the requirement of the biannual review of the UNDOF mandate and decision of renewal by the Council, and further noting that the next renewal must occur by 30 June 2014,

Reiterating the Council’s commitment to the safety and security of UNDOF peacekeepers, and alarmed by the abduction of UNDOF and United Nations Truce Supervision Organization (UNTSO) observers, including those from the Observer Group Golan, as well as the exchange of armed hostilities, theft of materials and destruction of facilities in the area of separation,

Noting the UN Department of Peacekeeping Operations’ request for enhanced defensive equipment to UNDOF forces in order to ensure personal safety and maintain peace in the area of separation,

Recognizing political and cultural potential contributions of the Arab League and the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) in the training of UNDOF personnel,

Acknowledging the restriction against permanent members of the Council directly contributing military personnel to the UNDOF in order to maintain a neutral peacekeeping force in the Golan Heights,

1. Approves the sharing of expertise by permanent members of the Council to train UNDOF personnel, with the condition that all contributions occur outside of the neutral region established within the Golan Heights;

2. Invites the Arab League and OIC to participate in the cultural and linguistic training of UNDOF personnel, to maximize UNDOF effectiveness as peacekeepers in the unstable region;

3. Decides to establish a consultative mechanism in order to ensure informed and evidence-based decision-making with respect to the biannual renewal of the UNDOF mandate, and better address regional conflict spillover, which shall:

   a. consist of a biannual meeting between UNDOF representatives and troop contributing countries (TCCs) one month prior to the expiration date of the UNDOF mission;
b. aim to achieve cohesion between the Council and TCCs by discussing the challenges and resource needs in order to ensure effective resource allocation of TCC capacities to meet these needs;

c. report to the Council on the outcomes of this meeting;

4. Recommends TCCs take into consideration the need for UNDOF personnel to be trained in the use of enhanced defensive equipment, particularly during this time of regional instability;

5. Encourages Syria and Israel to accept the request by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations’ request for enhanced defensive arms and better communication systems in order to preserve the integrity of the area of separation;

6. Urges Syria and Israel to ease the limitations on the mobility of UNDOF personnel, in order to allow the UNDOF to fulfill its purpose and maintain peace in the area of separation;

7. Reaffirms that all of these measures shall be taken with the consent of Israel and Syria, as established in the Syria-Israel Disengagement Agreement;

8. Reiterates the need for all parties to immediately and fully implement the Syria-Israel Disengagement Agreement and its resolution 338;

9. Decides to remain actively seized of the matter.
The Security Council,

Gravely concerned that the conflict in Syria has resulted in more than 146,000 deaths, over 9 million people in need of humanitarian assistance, 6.5 million internally displaced persons, and 2.6 million refugees in neighboring Member States, according to the UNHCR Syria Regional Refugee Response and the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA),

Urging all parties of the conflict to cease any violent actions against civilians, especially those of which women and children are suffering from and acknowledging the role of women in the peacebuilding process,

Strongly affirming its commitment to the sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence of the Syrian Arab Republic as defined in Article 2 of the United Nations Charter (Charter), while recalling the particular obligations of the Security Council under Articles 1 and 24 of the UN Charter with special regard to maintaining international peace,

Bearing in mind Article 33 of the Charter, stating the necessity of establishing a peaceful solution for any dispute which might endanger international peace and security and calling upon all parties of the Syrian conflict to settle their dispute by peaceful and political means,

Recalling the Six-Point Proposal of the Joint Special Envoy of the UN and League of Arab States,

Concerned by the lack of communication, coordination, and information-sharing amongst UN agencies involved in providing aid to Syrian refugees, despite existing tools designed for this purpose such as the Syria Refugee Response Inter-Agency Information Sharing Portal (SSRP),

Noting that the Second International Humanitarian Pledging Conference for Syria failed to result in sufficient funding to satisfy the goals of the Syrian Refugee Response Plan (RRP),

Fully aware that providing humanitarian aid for internally displaced persons (IDPs) is outside of UNHCR's mandate and capacity, and recalling the UN Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement which describes IDPs as "persons or groups of persons who have been forced or obliged to flee or to leave their homes or places of habitual residence, in particular as a result of or in order to avoid the effects of armed conflict, situations of federalized violence, violations of human rights, or natural or human made disasters, and who have not crossed an internationally recognized state border,"

Noting with deep concern the burdensome social and economic consequences on refugee host Member States, including Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, and Turkey, of the increasing influx of Syrian refugees,

Deeply disturbed by the report by the Chair of the Commission of Inquiry on Syria Paulo Pinheiro dated 18 March 2014 (HRC/25/65), which highlights sexual crimes committed by involved parties in Syria,

Acknowledging that a political, Syrian-led transition is essential in establishing sustainable peace within the state,

Reaffirming that the rights of expression and assembly and that the legitimate aspirations of people must be respected, in accordance with the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights,

Emphasizing the urgent need for peaceful negotiations between all relevant parties of the conflict,
Recalling the Geneva II Conference and its efforts in opening the dialogue between the Syrian government and all relevant opposition groups,

Noting the success of the temporary ceasefire agreement in Homs on February 10, 2014,

Expressing its appreciation that the Syrian Arab Republic has ratified the treaty to join the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW),

Welcoming the OPCW report of March 20, which states that 50% of chemical weapons have been removed from Syria, and recognizing the cooperation and commitment demonstrated by involved parties to this end,

Highly concerned by the increase of terrorist acts committed on Syrian territory, and reiterating its call upon all parties associated with Al-Qaeda and other terrorist affiliates to end these atrocities immediately,

Reiterating its dismay with the rise of proliferation of small arms in the Middle East, which enable terrorist activity, as mentioned in resolution 2117 (2013),

Recognizing the important work of the Peacebuilding Commission the Counter-Terrorism Committee (CTC) created by S/RES/1373 (2001), S/RES/1624 (2005) and Al-Qaeda Sanctions Committee created by S/RES/1267 (1999), S/RES/1989 (2011) have performed in containing and documenting terrorist activities,

2. Urges the Syrian authorities to continue to demonstrate full commitment to working with the international community towards the complete and timely implementation of S/RES/2118 (2013);

3. Calls upon all parties committed to a peaceful political Syrian-led transition, especially the Syrian authorities and all relevant opposition groups, to meet for a third Peace Conference in Geneva at a date within the next three months to be determined by the Secretary General, formally referred to as the “Geneva III Conference,” under the supervision of the Security Council, the European Union, the Arab League, and the Organization of the Islamic Cooperation;

   b. consider the individuals or groups to put under the Al-Qaeda Sanctions Regime for further action;

6. Calls upon Syria to take all measures necessary to strengthen border control to prevent the spreading of terrorists as well as the proliferation of arms;

7. Urges the neighboring countries of Syria to pay more attention to and strengthen their control of cross-border circulation, in accordance with the CTC’s recommendations;
8. Calls upon all parties, particularly the Syrian authorities, to collaborate and maintain dialogue among international, regional, and national non-government organizations and Member States, to increase coordination and information-sharing regarding all humanitarian aspects, particularly to determine best practices for distribution humanitarian aid through the SRRP;
