29 October 2010

Dear Honorable Delegates, Faculty and Friends,

It is with great enthusiasm that we welcome you to the 2010 National Model United Nations+DC Conference. We offer each of you our sincerest welcome to our nation's capital.

NMUN+DC is, first and foremost, an educational experience. Through this hands-on approach, you will gain leadership, speaking, writing and teamwork skills as well as a global perspective on world problems. The nature of this active involvement in learning allows students to witness the consequences of their decisions and actions. We hope that you utilize this opportunity to deeply engage with important international issues, learn from each other's experiences, and examine the current global situation. Throughout the weekend, take time to consider the power of the United Nations and its impact on individuals around the world. Most importantly, reflect on the future of the UN and your role as an engaged member of the international community.

Washington, DC provides a unique environment in which to consider these issues. In addition to being the seat of power of the United States government, Washington is home to many influential international bodies including the World Bank, the Pan American Health Organization, and the International Monetary Fund. We encourage you to take advantage of all aspects of this conference: the location, the knowledge of the volunteer staff and the shared experiences of our distinguished guest speakers.

Once again, we extend a warm welcome to both new and returning delegates. Although the task ahead may seem daunting to some, we want to reassure you that our staff will provide the respect, attention and resources necessary to assist you. We hope you will leave with a renewed sense of purpose and a greater appreciation for the United Nations. We urge you to use dialogue to empower others to serve the common good both this weekend and in the future.

Warm regards,

Michael Aguilar
Secretary General

Amanda M. D'Amico
Under Secretary General

DELEGATES

While participating in the National Model UN conference, delegates have a responsibility to always maintain the highest level of professionalism and diplomacy. Conference staff, faculty, and fellow delegates should be treated with the highest level of courtesy and respect. Professionalism in speech, actions, and appearance by delegates is a requirement of this conference, and necessary to its educational mission. It is assumed that all delegates will respect the property of the United Nations and the host hotels.

NMUN reserves the right to restrict future registration for any participant or school, whose delegates or faculty are not able to uphold their responsibility to the conference's code of conduct.

Delegates are expected to:
- Remain in character by consistently advancing the interests and representing the policies of the country assigned. To act "in character" also entails displaying respect for the opinions and ideas of fellow delegates, even if these opinions and ideas conflict with a given delegate's own country priorities.
- Collaborate with fellow delegates when possible.
- Be courteous and professional at all times.
- Please drink responsibly. Excessive alcohol consumption should be avoided. The US legal drinking age is 21.
- The consumption of alcohol and other drugs in committee sessions is forbidden.
- Any issues related to illicit drugs will be immediately directed to the attention of local authorities.
- Delegates who disrupt committee sessions or create problems in the hotel may be banned from further participation in the conference.

HEAD DELEGATES

Head delegates provide leadership to their delegates and to other delegations by serving as information resources. They should attend and participate in head delegate meetings. Head delegates may be assigned to a committee or may serve solely in an advisory role. Head delegates assigned to a committee should observe the delegate code of conduct. Those not assigned to a particular committee should interact with delegates as would a faculty advisor.

FACULTY

The role of faculty, while at the conference, is to make all efforts to see that their students maintain a positive and professional approach to the conference. The educational quality of the conference is primarily dependent on all delegates' active and professional participation. Faculty can ensure this by monitoring their students' attendance at committee meetings and helping them understand the skills of diplomacy as practiced at National Model United Nations. Faculty advisors must maintain the highest level of professionalism toward all conference participants and staff.

During the conference, faculty are encouraged to advise students on specific questions such as a state's policy or issues of international law, but must not participate in the actual writing of resolutions or caucusing activities. NMUN allows students an opportunity to demonstrate their preparation and research skills. While faculty members are encouraged to observe their students from the back of committee rooms, participation in the committee process must be left to the student delegates and the conference staff.

Faculty members are expected to:
- Provide leadership to their delegates and to other delegations by serving as information resources when appropriate.
- Respond to questions and concerns without interfering with the work of the committees or the deliberations of delegates, whether in formal or in caucus.
- Refrain from using academic credit and grading policies that force participation beyond that country's normal position in the UN.
- Remind their delegates of the educational purpose of the simulation. Awards should not be a delegate's main emphasis.
- Attend and participate in faculty meetings.
- Offer suggestions and assistance to new and junior faculty members.

Although the NMUN recognizes the potential of awards to foster competition rather than collaboration in its simulation, awards will continue to be offered in response to requests by the majority of participating schools. The Secretariat selects recipients based on the criteria and methodology outlined below. NMUN staff reserves the right to make any award.

DELEGATION AWARDS

National Model United Nations has established criteria for evaluating delegate performance. Each element is equally important to the overall awards determination process. All committee members are weighed equally, and delegations are rated on a mathematical formula in relation to the total number of committees represented by the individual Member State.

Areas of evaluation are:
- Remaining in character - defined as advancing your assigned country's position in a manner consistent with economic, social, and geopolitical factors.
- Participating in committee - evaluated both during formal sessions and caucusing.
- Proper use of rules of procedure - NMUN uses the rules of procedure to facilitate effective workings of committees and debate.

COMMITTEE AWARDS

A majority of faculty have indicated a desire for individual committee awards in addition to overall delegation awards. The survey results favored ballots by delegate peers. When voting for their peers, NMUN asks delegates to keep in mind that the conference believes outstanding delegates are those who cooperate and stay in the policy/character of their assigned member state. Voting, standing on chairs and other examples of unprofessional behavior are not characteristics of model diplomats. Recipients will be announced at the final committee session.

A full description of criteria are available at nmun.org.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT / DISCRIMINATION POLICY

It is the intention of the NCUSA and Chicago Center (organizer) that the environment of National Model United Nations supports an educational goal. The organizers will not tolerate any instances of discrimination based on race, color, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, religion, age or handicapping condition. If any delegate, staff or faculty member believes they have encountered discrimination, which results in a hostile working environment or disparate treatment, they must call the attention of the Secretariat General of the conference. In the event that this is not possible, they must bring it to the attention of the organizers. The Secretariat General and a member of the organizer board must investigate the merits of the allegations, interviewing all parties involved.

Based on the investigation findings, NMUN may:
- Take no action
- Issue a verbal reprimand
- Separate the individual from the conference
- Implement any other action deemed appropriate.

DRESS CODE

All clothing must adhere to guidelines that portray professionalism and modestly. If a delegate’s attire is deemed inappropriate by NMUN staff, the delegate will be asked to leave the session and return with appropriate attire.

- Standard delegate attire for the conference is business jacket, shirts or blouses for women, dress shirt (with tie for men) and dress shoes.
- Dress sweaters, short, capri pants, jeans, and sneakers and sunglasses are considered too casual. Clothes that expose excessive bare skin or are otherwise revealing are inappropriate.
- It is not appropriate for delegates to display any national symbols such as flags, pins, crest, etc. on their person during sessions. UN symbols are acceptable.

Western business dress is preferred. Traditional dress is only permitted for international delegates in whose native countries “political business dress” includes traditional cultural dress. NMUN will not tolerate any delegate’s attempt to portray a “character” using traditional cultural attire as costume.

As role models for delegates, volunteers staff, faculty advisors and guests are required to dress in western business attire while participating in scheduled conference sessions.
