THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

MESSAGE TO NATIONAL MODEL UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE

NMUN•DC

Washington, D.C., 31 October - 2 November 2014

Your participation in this Model UN comes at a time of opportunity and risk for the human family. We are the first generation that can end extreme poverty -- yet people and the planet face the rising pressures of a warming climate, growing inequality, and exploitation from mines to fields to factory floors.

The United Nations works every day, around the clock, across the world, to confront today's emergencies while building foundations of peace for tomorrow. We are feeding the hungry, fighting disease, and pressing for a nuclear-weapon-free world. We are strengthening peacekeeping, peacebuilding, and preventive diplomacy as well as our tools for justice and accountability. Our sights are also set on the key year of 2015: the deadline for achieving the Millennium Development Goals, reaching an agreement on climate change, and adopting a bold vision for the period beyond 2015 that will advance economic growth, social progress, and environmental stewardship.

These plans are ambitious. We need people to make them real. That means you. I count on you to use the negotiating skills you learn in this Model UN exercise to help navigate the real-world challenges we face. I encourage you to join forces with like-minded individuals and groups to generate change and promote mutual tolerance, understanding, and respect. I also hope you will link to the United Nations through our Twitter and Facebook accounts.

Technology has globalized communications. Now we have to globalize compassion and citizenship. In a world that is more connected, we must be more united. With our fates ever more entwined, our future must be one of ever deeper and wider cooperation. That is the global logic of our times.

I look forward to the contributions you will make to our shared work for peace, development, and human rights. Please accept my best wishes for a memorable experience.

2014 NATIONAL MODEL UNITED NATIONS•DC

SPONSORED BY THE NATIONAL COLLEGIATE CONFERENCE ASSOCIATION
Washington, DC, 31 October - 2 November nmun.org

Dear Honorable Delegates, Faculty Advisors, Staff, and Friends,

It is our distinct honor to welcome you to the 2014 National Model United Nations DC Conference. On behalf of the 2014 volunteer staff and our conference partners, the National Collegiate Conference Association (NCCA), and the Osgood Center for International Studies, we thank you for joining us for an exciting weekend that we hope will challenge, engage, and energize each and every one of you.

Each year at the NMUN•DC conference held in late October, we as staff and delegates are uniquely positioned to reflect on the work of the United Nations following the General Debate held each September. This year the assembled world leaders at the UN grappled with many of the same evolving, long-term problems as well as short-term emergencies that you will debate. In particular, 2015 marks the end of the Millennium Development Goals and the start of the framework to follow, this transition has led to reflection and progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The post-2015 development agenda and the SDGs intend to focus the international community on adapting to the most complex international development issues and human prosperity with greater integrity and sustainability than ever before. This new call to action remains tenuous, yet promising. If the international community can build a path forward while acknowledging, accepting, and integrating history, then there is true potential of improving the human condition globally. As we pursue this goal, it is not just agreeing on the SDGs that challenges us; our world is constantly changing, constantly evolving. In confronting a changing world, the international community too has a choice: do we face the evolving world together or apart?

Here, as representatives of the world's countries, you will be confronted with this choice, not just in the policies you choose, but in your daily interactions and negotiations with other delegates. NMUN•DC asks you to bring creativity, compassion, and innovation to every action that you take. You will have to think critically and represent your assigned country accurately and diplomatically, protecting and portraying its interests while simultaneously seeking consensus, at times in the face of disagreement and impossible situations. As such, we hope Model UN is the start of a journey for all towards understanding today's stark realities as well as potential, and turning empathy into extraordinary actions. Actions that with the right care can raise voices, save lives, change minds, and lift generations.

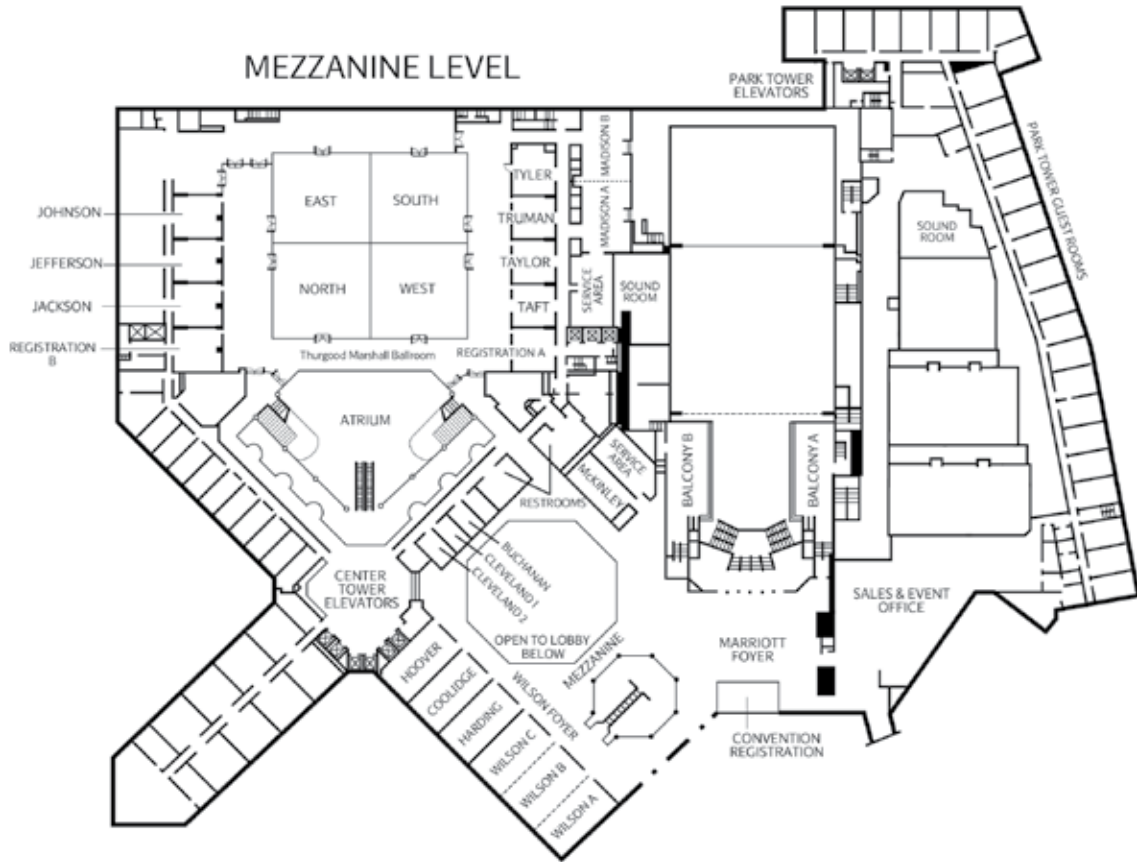

We know that this is the journey Model UN has led us on, and we are truly excited to share that with you this weekend. Together, while each of us take action in our own lives, we can play an important role creating a future of sustainability and integrity, and supporting the UN and its mission to bring peace and dialogue to the world.

Sincerely,

Cara Wagner

DELEGATES

While participating in the National Model UN conference, delegates have a responsibility to always maintain the highest level of professionalism and diplomacy. Conference staff, faculty advisors, and fellow delegates should be treated with the highest level of courtesy and respect. Professionalism in speech, actions, and appearance by delegates is a requirement of this conference, and necessary to its educational mission. It is assumed that all delegates will respect the property of the U.S. Department of State and the host hotel.

NMUN reserves the right to restrict future registration for any participant or school, whose delegates or faculty advisors are not able to uphold their responsibility to the conference's code of conduct.

Delegates are expected to:

- Remain "in character" by consistently advocating the interests and representing the policies of the country assigned. To act "in character" also entails displaying respect for the opinions and ideas of fellow delegates, even if these opinions and ideas conflict with a given delegate's own country's priorities.
- Collaborate with fellow delegates when possible.
- Be courteous and professional at all times.
- Attend all committee sessions.
- Avoid the consumption of alcohol and other drugs in committee sessions. Any issues related to illicit drugs will be immediately directed to the attention of local authorities.

Delegates who disrupt committee sessions or create problems in the hotel may be barred from further participation in the conference.

Delegates are encouraged to enjoy the variety of activities available at our conference venues. Please bear in mind, however, the purpose of being here is participation in NMUN and failure to attend committee sessions may result in your withdrawal from the conference.

If you are going to drink, please drink responsibly. Excessive alcohol consumption should be avoided. The US legal drinking age is 21.

HEAD DELEGATES

Head delegates provide leadership to their delegates and to other delegations by serving as information resources. They should attend and participate in head delegates meetings. Head delegates may be assigned to a committee or may serve solely in an advisory role. Head delegates assigned to a committee should observe the delegate code of conduct. Those not assigned to a particular committee should interact with delegates as would a faculty advisor.

FACULTY ADVISORS

The role of faculty advisors, while at the conference, is to make all efforts to see that their students maintain a positive and professional approach to the conference. The educational quality of the conference is primarily dependent on the active and professional participation of all delegates. Faculty advisors can ensure this by monitoring the attendance of their students at committee meetings and helping them understand the skills of diplomacy as practiced at National Model United Nations. Faculty advisors must maintain the highest level of professionalism toward all conference participants and staff.

During the conference, faculty advisors are encouraged to advise students on specific questions such as a Member State's policy or issues of international law, but must not participate in the actual writing of resolutions or caucusing activities. NMUN allows students an opportunity to demonstrate their preparation and research skills. While faculty advisors are encouraged to observe their students from the back of committee rooms, participation in the committee process must be left to the student delegates and the conference staff.

Faculty Advisors are expected to:

- Provide leadership to their delegates and to other delegations by serving as information resources when appropriate.
- Respond to questions and concerns without interfering with the work of the committees or the deliberations of delegates, whether in formal session or in caucus.
- Refrain from using academic credit and grading policies that force participation beyond that country's normal position in the UN.
- Remind their delegates of the educational purpose of the simulation. Awards should not be a delegation's main emphasis.
- Attend and participate in faculty advisors meetings.
- Offer suggestions and assistance to new faculty advisors.

DRESS CODE

All clothing must adhere to guidelines that portray professionalism and modesty. If a delegate's attire is deemed inappropriate by NMUN staff, the delegate will be asked to leave the session and return with appropriate attire.

- Standard delegate attire for the conference is business jacket, slacks/skirt, dress shirt (with tie for men) and dress shoes.
- Dress sweaters, shorts, ball caps, jeans, sneakers and sunglasses are considered too casual. Clothes that expose excessive bare skin or are otherwise revealing are inappropriate.
- It is not appropriate for delegates to display any national symbols such as flags, pins, crests, etc. on their person during sessions. UN symbols are acceptable.

Western business dress is preferred. Traditional dress is only permitted for international delegates in whose native countries "professional business dress" includes traditional cultural dress. NMUN will not tolerate any delegate's attempt to portray a "character" using traditional cultural attire as costume.

As role models for delegates, volunteer staff, faculty advisors and guests are required to dress in western business attire while participating in scheduled conference sessions.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT / DISCRIMINATION POLICY

It is the intention of the NCCA that the environment of National Model United Nations supports our educational goal. The organizers will not tolerate any instances of discrimination based on race, color, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, religion, age or disability.

If any delegate, staff or faculty advisor believes they have encountered discrimination, which results in a hostile working environment or disparate treatment, they must bring it to the attention of the Secretary-General of the conference. In the event that this is not possible, they must bring it to the attention of the organizers. The NCCA will investigate the merits of the allegations, interviewing all parties involved.

Based on the findings, organizers may:

- take no action
- issue a verbal reprimand
- separate the individual from the conference
- implement any other action deemed appropriate

See nmun.org/policies_codes.html for information on the procedure for addressing code of conduct violations.

Delegation Awards

National Model United Nations has established criteria for evaluating delegate performance. Each element is equally important to the overall awards determination process. All committees are weighted equally, and delegations are rated on a mathematical formula in relation to the total number of committees represented by the individual Member State.

Areas of evaluation are:

- Remaining in character – defined as advocating your assigned country's position in a manner consistent with economic, social and geopolitical constraints.
- Participating in committee – evaluated both during formal sessions and caucusing.
- Proper use of the rules of procedure – NMUN uses the rules of procedure to facilitate effective workings of committee and debate.

Throughout her career, Angela Cressy Deane has been deeply involved in human rights. In her current position at Human Rights Watch, an international NGO, where she serves as the director of the New York Committee, she focuses on development and fundraising for an organization that is dedicated to defending and protecting human rights worldwide. Her decision to pursue the M.S. in Global Affairs offered by the NYU School of Professional Studies Center for Global Affairs, stemmed from her desire to gain a broader perspective of international human rights. Through rigorous coursework and the opportunity to complete field intensives in Cuba, Bosnia, Serbia, and at The Hague, she was able to meet people from around the world who offered the nuanced perspectives that have enhanced her ability to raise funds for this incredibly important cause.

Suspension of the Meeting	Recess meeting for a defined period	None	Majority	Used to go into informal debate or break for a given time
Adjournment of the Meeting	End meeting	None	Majority	Used only on final day; ends committee for the year
Adjournment of Debate	End debate without a substantive vote	2 pro/2 con	Majority	Tables the topic; requires a roll call
Closure of Debate	Vote on all draft resolutions or report segments; move to an immediate vote	2 con	2/3 Majority	Ends all discussion on current topic
Division of the Question (Used in voting only)	Consider clause(s) separately from rest of draft resolution or report segment			Voted on in order of most to least radical change
	Part I: Procedural vote on if this motion should be considered	2 pro/2 con	Majority	If passes: Clause(s) removed and voted on separately If fails: No change to clause(s)
	Part II: Substantive vote to accept or reject separate clauses	None	Majority	If passes: Annex passes If fails: Clause(s) discarded and no longer part of any draft resolution
Roll Call Vote (Used in voting only)	Vote by roll call, rather than show of Placards	None	None	Automatically granted once requested
Adopt by Acclamation (Used in voting only)	Adopt a draft resolution or report segment as a body by consensus	None	None	Once motioned Chair must ask if there are any dissensions
Reconsideration	Re-open debate on an issue (Motion must be made by a member who voted for "Adjournment of Debate")	2 con	2/3 Majority	Untables topic that was tabled by "Adjournment of Debate"
*Set the Speaker's Time	Set or change the time allotted to each speaker	2 pro/2 con	Majority	It is very rarely used at the UN and may be ruled out of order by the Chair
Close the List of Speakers (also applies to re-opening the list)	No additional speakers can be added to the list of speakers	None	Majority
Adoption of the Agenda	Approval of agenda order	None	Majority

* No motions to set the speaking time will be accepted during the first committee session; these motions will only be accepted in subsequent sessions upon prior approval of the dais.

 Only these Motions are accepted during voting procedure.
